

Stephen D. Timmons

Of Counsel

stimmons@hoveywilliams.com

Steve has been with Hovey Williams since 1971. He has extensive experience in all phases of complex mechanical patent prosecution, expertise in agricultural machinery and significant litigation experience in a variety of mechanical technologies.

Steve first became interested in a career in patent law during high school. Later, while in engineering school, he interviewed Kansas City patent attorney Orville Gold, who encouraged Steve to continue his plan to become a patent attorney. After being accepted into law school at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, he clerked for Hovey Williams until graduation, when he joined the firm.
